

CONSULTATION

We believe in consultation and involvement. Colin Buchanan has a dedicated Consultation and Involvement Group which brings together highly skilled individuals to best serve the diverse needs of our clients. We aim to help people work together collaboratively and build consensus over issues that are sometimes controversial.

Our approach

Over the years Colin Buchanan has developed specialist expertise in public and stakeholder consultation and involvement. We have worked with a range of groups and individuals and employed a wide variety of techniques. We always ensure that our consultation work is inclusive, suited to the local context and that the outcomes are used to develop the right solutions.

Our Consultation and Involvement Group

- brings together a wealth of skills and experience in consultation methods and techniques
- collaborates with our in-house Market Research and Survey department to ensure sound methodologies and robust analysis
- uses our in-house Graphic Design department to produce high quality supporting material such as leaflets, posters, exhibitions and web pages
- receives regular training and is committed to continually developing expertise
